Sunday, July 22, 2016 Black Kites of Costa Rica The Costa Rican kite has been found in the national park of Corcovado since 1982. This is one of the largest bird colonies in the world. In the area around the park there are more than 15,000 kites, but few nests, which are formed around the trees of the forest. The population of this bird is estimated at 1.3 million. Although this is the third largest national park in the country, it is far from being visited by tourists. The best time to see the kites in the area is during the first week of January. The nest of the black kite Costa Rica has a large area of forests and mountains, which in the whole country count for more than half of its area. The only large areas with heavy population are the northwestern region (the Talamanca area) and the southern coastal region (the Osa and Corcovado area). The latter is the main attraction for the many wildlife lovers who come to Costa Rica. Corcovado is the second largest national park in the country after Gandoca, but it is not often visited by tourists. It holds the largest kite flock in the world, with over 15,000 birds. They are also a rather difficult bird to see, because they are usually not seen except after sunset, or under the moonlight. You need to be very lucky to see a bird in this situation, but even when you see one, you will not see the nest, because it is hidden in the forest.--TSM1-- The MIT License (MIT) Copyright (c) 2014 Reddit Permission is hereby granted, free of charge, to any person obtaining a copy of this software and associated documentation files (the "Software"), to deal in the Software without restriction, including without limitation the rights to use, copy, modify, merge, publish, distribute, sublicense, and/or sell copies of the Software, and to permit persons to whom the Software is furnished to do so, subject to the following conditions: The above copyright notice and this permission notice shall be included in all copies or substantial portions of the Software.
